

Q...Hi Solutions members.Does anyone know of a good divorce Lawyer in Victoria

My nephew is just at the begining of a divorce with a psycopath who will not let their kids see any of his family.

A...Maybe have a session with the lawyers on here, it costs $250 for an hour consultation, and they may be able to advise you of a good lawyer which could potentially get a better result for you. However getting a lawyer and family court involved with family concerns is a recipe for trouble. Mark also has a recent webinar on family court/ family law stuff family court has a great capacity for deciding that sociopaths, by way of court order, deserve greater than equal rights to wreak total havoc upon kids and families. the best way is to resolve it between principals without any third party intervention who – being third parties – have no sense of whats really best and whats at stake. See the webinar as your starting point and you may have new questions for us from there.
<https://solutionsempowerment.org/webinar-address-the-family-court-to-win/>